

Animal Management in Rural and Remote Indigenous Communities (AMRRIC)

is an Australian organisation that works alongside Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples to coordinate and facilitate sustainable, culturally-sensitive, professional animal health programs. AMRRIC supports desexing and dog health programs to improve the situation for dogs, their owners and communities. By improving the health and welfare of companion animals, AMRRIC contributes to improved community health.

AMRRIC works with a range of stakeholders and partners. It trains locally employed animal management workers, provides education programs and supports research into disease and disease prevention AMRRIC is a non-profit organisation based in Darwin, Northern Territory, operating nationally across Australia. AMRRIC receives funding from the Australian Federal Government's Department of Families, Housing, Community Services and Indigenous Affairs and from the Northern Territory Government, and also relies on private and philanthropic donations.